It's Pleasing to Particular People--HAGAN'S Ice Cream--Kirk's Stores

Are you doing anything for starving, suffering humanity in far away Belgium. The opportunity is here. It is up to the individual. It takes a mean person to say "I won't feed a starving baby." Not one in 500 will say that.

Little Hero Met Death After Saving Companion

The first drowning accident of the season was reported shortly after 11 o'clock this morning when Thomas Hughes, the 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes of McKee avenue, met death in the Monongahela river. This morning young Hughes in company with Vernon Albrecht and Richard and Kenneth Brown went to the river to go in bathing. Securing a boat they went across the river opposite the Electric park and all were in the water when the Albrecht boy got beyond his depth and cried for help. Richard Brown swam out to his aid, but they struggled in the water and he was forced to let him go in order to save his own life.

Returning to shore he got the boat and with his brother and the Hughes boy went out after young Albrecht. Thomas Hughes jumped from the boat and grabbing the drowning lad brought him to the boat. After Albrecht was in the boat the Brown boys turned to help Hughes get in the boat, but he could not be found and had evidently overexerted himself in saving his drowning companion and went to the bottom for the last time.

The alarm was sounded and men with grappling hooks were soon on the scene, but up until the present time the body has not been recovered.

Thomas Hughes, the little hero who met such an untimely end, was a great favorite among his school friends and during the past season was a pitcher on the 8A base ball team. He was an exceptionally good swimmer for a boy his age.

Takes Five Days Rather Than Work

C. J. Rose of 1655 Ontario street, was arrested by Carnegie Steel Officer F. J. Hicks on a charge of drunkenness, disorderly conduct and using profane language. He denied his guilt at the hearing before Burgess Dunlap this morning, but was assessed a fine of $3.00 and costs, amounting to $5.00. Not having the money he was told that he could work on the streets for three days, which he refused to do and instead will spend the next five days in the lockup with a bread and water diet.

Officer Albright happened along Saturday night just in time to catch a crowd of foreigners breaking a bottle on the streets. They refused to tell who was guilty of the act and the entire crowd was brought to the police station. After being placed in the cell, they thought the matter over and placed the blame on one man, Joe Hoksa, who failed to show up at the hearing and forfeited his $10.00. The other men were discharged.

NOTICE TO TAX PAYERS

Monday, June 7th is the last day to pay borough, county, state and dog tax to save 5% discount. Office open evenings.

Attendance Large At Convention

Yesterday was notable in that a successful Sunday school convention was held in the new High school auditorium. Large crowds attended both the afternoon and evening sessions. Fred Matson, president of this district, presided at both sessions and excellent and appreciated music was furnished by the choir of the A. M. E. church.

A question box was conducted in the afternoon and elicitated much interest. Mrs. Stewart of Washington, gave a thoughtful talk on Missions and Rev. R. L. Erhard of the Donora Methodist church, addressed the audience on "The Church and the Sunday School." Dr. Smith of McKeesport, created an impression with his talk on "Temperance" at the evening session. The entire program was carried out as prearranged and was a most successful affair.

Pocketbooks Are Opened For Starving Belgians

Armed with subscription books and official authority to collect funds for the starving Belgians, more than fifty volunteers started through the streets and alleys and over the hills of Monessen bright and early this morning. This is bread day all over western Pennsylvania, and this town is not behind in this far reaching charitable and humanitarian movement. The town is districted and a captain at the head of a well organized band of helpers has charge of each district. Business men have charge of the business streets.

This will be the most charitable day in the history of Monessen, and no movement on behalf of humanity ever took hold of the hearts of the people with greater force than this.

The organization of the entire town and the forming of committees was a tremendous task, but the work is now well under way and by sundown this evening, Monessen will have subscribed several hundred dollars to the Belgian cause.

Teams are at work in the mills as well as out in the town and an effort is being made to see busines and professional men, laborers and mechanics, men and women, and boys and girls of all sizes, ages and colors in the hope of having donations from every source. It is estimated that a penny a day from all Americans would provide food for starving Europe, and this would be an easy matter if the people could be reached. The hardest problem would not be the giving of the money, but the educational feature would be the task. To acquaint every person with the actual conditions. And that is the problem the committee today has to wrestle with. Explaining to people who have not kept in touch with the Belgian situation.

Members of the committee authorized to solicit funds carry a small black leather book with the seal of the borough and their names and the officers names of the local committee. In order to avoid imposters that might take advantage of the situation, persons subscribing should be sure that they do it through persons having these credentials. The work will likely be going on several days and every member of every family should contribute something, even though it be small, it should be something.

Recital By Pupils Of Mrs. T. S. Adams

One of the most successful recitals of the season was given Saturday afternoon by the pupils of Mrs. T. S. Adams at her home on McKee avenue. A varied program including solos, duets and trios on the piano were carried out and the children who took part are to be complimented upon their efforts. Parents and friends of the pupils were present and enjoyed the program and a dainty lunch that was served at the close of the affair. Following is the complete program:

Solo—Rose Wilson.
Duet—Cathryn Barben and Florence Wilson.
Solo—Ina Heilman.

Injured in Auto Accident

Joseph Connell, a young Charleroi lad was badly bruised when the Buick touring car being driven by Lawrence Lowstutter skidded last night, throwing the car against a telegraph pole. Mr. Lowstutter was returning from Bentleyville with a party of young people when the accident occurred. The car was only slightly damaged and no serious accidents were reported.

BENTLYVILLE ON FIRE

Bentleyville in Washington county is being threatened by destruction from fire and surrounding towns are being called on for aid. At the noon hour the Model bakery, one of the largest industries in that section caught fire and in a few minutes was a mass of ruins entailing a loss of over $10,000. Other buildings are threatened and at the time of going to press, the fire was not under control.

And The Little Old Ford Rambled Right Along

The following "story" is the product of Will H. Watson, and was published in Friday's issue of the Donora American.

"Here's a tall one. J. H. Racz of Monessen owns a Ford. Weiland Michaels drives a Saxon. Memorial Day they collided. Both cars were hurled backward by the impact and the drivers were tossed into the air. By a strange freak of fate, Racz landed in the Saxon and Michaels ended his aerial jaunt in the driver's seat of the Ford. In the excitement neither man noticed the difference. They drove contentedly home and didn't discover the involuntary exchange until the next day. Neither cars nor men suffered damage by the incident.

Workingman To Benefit

Ohio has a compulsory employe's insurance law. Not long ago, a driver for a Cincinnatti brewery, during high water, was told by a saloon keeper to deliver a keg of beer by rolling it into the cellar. He reached his hand through a hole in the gate to unhook the latch and a bulldog grabbed his hand. The industrial commission of Ohio has just decided that since the workman was injured in the course of employment, he is entiled to compensation for his injuries.

Before the former workmen's compensation act was in force, Miller could have sued the saloon keeper, and the saloon keeper would have said, "Miller assumed the risk." Under the later workmen's compensation act, Miller could not have recovered from his employer, the brewery, because his employer had not been negligent. If he was successful in either suit, his lawyers would have paid the expenses of the trial first and then taken out their half of the verdict. Under the state insurance plan, Miller who was really hurt, gets full compensation and the lawyer gets nothing.

An Act of Mercy

A lad of 20 was in jail in Los Angeles. He had violated the laws of man; had committed forgery and had plead guilty. Justice, blind and often heartless, made callous by the never-ending grist of human hearts that was the measure of her daily grind, demanded her full pound of flesh. Then came the word that the lad's mother was ill and the shock of a penitentiary sentence would likely kill her. The judge, with the wisdom of Portia, set aside the law and bade the boy "go and sin no more." Together with the officers of the court, he raised sufficient money to send him to his stricken mother. The prisoner, but an erring boy and not a criminal at heart, went out with his soul melted by this touch of sympathy. The law was cheated of its due—yet the sightless goddess smiled in gentle mercy, while the recording angel made an entry on the credit side of the judge's score.

KNOW THY COUNTRY

I—Introductory

"Know America" is a slogan that should ring out from every school room, office, farm and shop in this nation. No man can aspire to a higher honor than to become a capable citizen, and no one can merit so distinguished a title until he is well informed of the resources, possibilities and achievements of our country.

This is a commercial age and civilization is bearing its most golden fruit in America. We are noted for our industrial achievements as Egypt was noted for her pyramids; Jerusalem for her religion; Greece for her art; Phoenicia for her fleets; Chaldea for her astronomy and Rome for her laws. Likewise we have men who will go down in the world's history as powerful products of their age. For, standing at the source of every gigantic movement that sways civilization is a great man. The greatest minds travel in the greatest direction and the commercial geniuses of this age would have been the sculptors, poets, philosophers, architects, and artists of earlier civilizations.

As Michael Angelo took a rock and with a chisel hewed it into the image of an angel that ever beckons mankind upward and onward, Hill took the desert of the Northwest and with bands of steel made it blossom like a rose, dotted the valleys with happy homes and built cities in waste places.

As Guttenberg took blocks of wood and whittled them into an alphabet and made a printing press that flashed education across the continent like a ray of light upon a new born world, McCormick took a bar of iron and bent it into a reaper and with one sweep of his magic mind broke the shackles that enslaved labor of generations yet unborn, and gave mankind freedom from drudgery, and lifted the human race into a higher zone of life.

As Nelson organized the English navy and made England mistress of the sea, enabling the British Isles to plant her flag upon every continent washed by the ocean's waves, and to make footstools of the islands of every water, Morgan organized a banking system that has made America master of the world's finances, brought Kings to our cashier's windows, the nations of the earth to our discount desks and placed under the industries of this nation a financial system as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar.

There is no study quite so interesting as progress; no sound so magic as the roar of industry and no sight so inspiring as civilization in action. A full realization of America's part in the great events of the world past, present and future will thrill every human heart with pride, patriotism and faith in Republican institutions.

Through the courtesy of the Agricultural and Commercial Press Service, the readers of this paper will be permitted to study America; her agricultural, manufacturing and mineral development, mercantile, banking and transportation systems which are the wonder of the world. The first article of the series will deal with transportation and will appear at an early date

Looks Bad for Commencement

Over in Mount Pleasant, this county, 31 out of the 33 members of the graduating class of the High school went out on a strike and the baccalaureate which was to have been held last night was called off, and the chances for holding the commencement exercises Wednesday night are slight.

A delegation of indignant citizens headed by Attorney N. A. Cort, whose son is one of the pupils, went to Greensburg to confer with County Superintendent Robert Shaw. Twenty of the class failed to pass their final examinations and at once petitioned Principal U. L. Gordy for another trial which they say was promised. Before the date fixed for the examinations, Mr. Gordy and the High school teachers were re-elected for another term and following this, declared the examinations off.

Among those who flunked was Harold Meyers, president of the class. His father is dead and his mother a patient in a tuberculosis sanitarium. He has no home and has been sleeping in a pool room. Because of the boy's pluck in continuing school, class sentiment was strongly in favor of Meyers. An indignation meeting has been called in the town hall for tonight in an attempt to have matters straightened out for the commencement.

Battles in the Snow.

One of the most severe winters ever experienced was that of 1812, the year of Napoleon's great Russian campaign. On June 24 of that year he invaded Russia with an army of 600,000 men. Moscow was reached on Sept. 14, and a month later, after the Russians had burned that town to the ground, Napoleon commenced his retreat. The army of 600,000 was almost wiped out. Men froze to death by hundreds as they camped, and when at last the Russian frontier was reached only 130,000 men were left alive.

In the Crimean war England lost altogether 20,656 men. Actual fighting, however, was only responsible for 12 per cent of these deaths. Cold and disease were the causes of the other 88 per cent of deaths.

During the Franco-German campaign of 1870 another severe winter was experienced. To the thousands of Germans investing Paris the cold meant little. They had the whole country to draw on, but to the besieged and starving French it meant terrible suffering. The city surrendered in January after four months' siege.—Pearson's.

Listen to Your Conscience.

Almost daily in every breast there is some tragedy enacted. A plot and a counterplot, a hero and a victim, a climax and a catastrophe, remorse and restitution—all these confusedly intermingled with scenes of our inner consciousness. And he who selects out of it all as the type of his dominating thought the morbid and the hateful thus starves and shrivels up his own highest nature and poisons the lives of others. But he who in the midst of these chaotic scenes can listen attentively to the whisperings of the still, small voice thereby nourishes his soul to a degree of bigness and strength that make him a power for righteousness in any community. But the real secret of materializing our highest thoughts in the form of deeds is to act readily and willingly upon the promptings of the inner spirit. To procrastinate, however, is in time to render this inner voice forever silent.—Symphony Calendar.

Told to Earn His Own Salary.

Commodore Vanderbilt discovered in James H. Rutter, then in the employ of the Erie railroad, a man he believed the freight department of the Central needed. It is related that some time after he took charge of the Central's traffic office Rutter called on the commodore to submit a plan for improvement. When he had stated the case the president looked at him sharply and asked:

"Rutter, what does the New York Central pay you $15,000 a year for?"

The reply was, "For managing the freight traffic department."

And then the commodore said, "Well, you don't expect me to earn your salary for you, do you?"

Rutter went out and carried through his plan on his own judgment. The result was highly satisfactory. Rutter became president of the Central.

The Likelier One.

The late Admiral Mahan was once arguing with a lady at a luncheon about the British navy.

"But, my dear madam," said the admiral, "it is hard to argue with you because you are so—er, pardon me—so ignorant.

"You remind me of the young wife who said to her brother about her volunteer husband:

"'Isn't Jack just wonderful? Think! He's already been promoted to field marshal.'

"'From private to field marshal in two months? Impossible!' said the brother.

"'Did I say field marshal?' murmured the young wife. 'Well, perhaps it's court martial. I know it's one or the other.'"—Washington Star.

Kipling's Tribute to Mark Twain.

Kipling wrote of Mark Twain: "He put his hand upon my shoulder. It was an investiture of the Star of India, blue silk, trumpets and diamond studded jewel, all complete. If hereafter in the changes and chances of this mortal life I fall to careless ruin I will tell the superintendent of the workhouse that Mark Twain once put his hand on my shoulder and he shall give me a room to myself and a double allowance of tobacco."

Contradicted.

A certain physician told some of his patients that as long as they kept their feet dry they would be safe from an attack of the grip. One day he was surprised to receive a letter from a patient in which the latter said that he had two wooden legs, and yet he had had the grip for five consecutive years.

Just Even.

A Massachusetts candidate for congress after the election filed a beautifully negative account of his campaign expenses. It said, "I received nothing, promised nothing, expected nothing, got nothing." So he would seem to be just even with the game.—Browning's Magazine.

Her Business.

"It is no use trying to steal a march on that pretty girl at the glove counter."

"Why not?"

"She has a way of making every one show one's hand."—Baltimore American.

Monday Will Be Bread Day For Belgium in This City

A PENNY per day from every American would provide for all the destitute in Europe.

Think of it: One cent per head from the inhabitants of the United States means a million dollars daily!

So, after all, it ought to be a very simple matter to feed starving Belgium.

IF all of us did our share---

BUT that would mean calling upon the babe in arms and the cripple on crutches---the slum dweller and the backwoodsman---farmers and villagers and city folk---it would call for an organization, not only to carry the news of Belgium's plight, but to collect the funds and do any number of other perfectly impossible things.

While all of America must, in theory, provide for Belgium's starving, a few Americans will, in actuality, have to do the work.

The burden of relief falls upon the big cities where concentrated action is possible and where the daily press can bring the condition of these unfortunate refugees constantly to the notice of the community, until everyone comprehends the dire straits and the pressing need of Belgium's homeless waifs. In such instances as this, you, the average man are all too likely to assume that your co-operation is not vitally required, that there will be enough assistance rendered without your aid, and contrasting your means with the income of a multitude of richer men, will, in genuine sincerity, figure that a general call for aid is not specifically directed at you.

But you probably have not stopped to think that the wealthy have donated millions and the food which it bought is gone, while the famine and privation continue and steadily grow more severe. Philanthropy has assumed such magnificent proportions in recent years, and foundations and endowments have distributed such colossal sums that we're used to the idea of "Letting the Georges do it."

Whenever occasion arises for public relief and subscription lists are opened, one group of kind and public-spirited men and women invariably provides the necessary funds.

Taken all in all, it is not an exaggeration to assert that ninety per cent of charitable enterprises are supported by one per cent of our citizens.

But Belgium will perish as a nation, her famishing women and children will die on the hills and in the open fields, if you and the type which you represent do not immediately and earnestly appreciate that this job is too big for the "George Society"—that everybody, everywhere, must, and now, co-operate to prevent the ghastliest tragedy of famine that history knows.

Don't think of the millions of dollars that have been raised, but of the millions of Belgians who are still destitute. The one sum seems stupendous until you divide its beneficiaries, and then you'll find what a short end the individual gets.

The Relief Commission at no time has been able to allow more than seven cents per day for the feeding of man, woman and child. (Imagine how luxuriously you could feast on 50c a week) and yet this miserable pittance has been received with a gratitude that you, (whose notion of poverty has never included even the idea of a week of existence without shelter or provision) cannot possibly imagine.

Get this picture fixed in your mind and dwell upon it; whole communities, including families, which a year ago were dwelling in opulence, are without money, without homes, without clothes (except the horrible rags in which they stand) and without hope of survival, except through the prompt aid of America.

No other country can undertake the tremendous task.

The Belgian aged, the Belgian children and the Belgian women will perish by the hundreds of thousands if we do not continue to ship them bread.

You surely don't want it on your conscience that for lack of a few dollars' worth of food, (upon which one human being can, in that war-mangled kingdom, exist for a whole month)—an old man or a young girl writhed in the unutterable torture of hunger and died.

And yet, it is not overstating the situation to say that your refusal to aid, may mean such a tragedy for at least one person.

There are so many selfish and thoughtless among us—so many who won't or who can't be reached, that every man convinced of Belgium's necessities must not only do all that lies within his power, but constitute himself a campaigner and appeal to his friend and acquaintance to do their best for the cause.

One sack of flour will save one life for a whole month. A sack of flour costs two dollars.

How many sacks of flour will you and your efforts put upon the ship of mercy which Western Pennsylvania will soon send speeding across the seas?

Monday will be Bread Day in this town.

BE PREPARED to contribute to the local committee on Monday. How many sacks of flour will you provide?

Forty cities and towns in Western Pennsylvania are making up their contributions. In all Western Pennsylvania, we are asking something from every home. Will this community do its share?

Unnaturalized Foreigners Can Not Keep Dogs

As a result of a bill passed by the legislature and signed by Governor Brumbaugh, unnaturalized foreigners must go out of the dog business. The penalty is severe. Any unnaturalized foreigner caught harboring a dog is liable to a fine of not less than $25 or imprisonment for not less than 25 days. As the bill now stands, any game fish warden, state policeman or constable may make arrests, but as this law is most applicable to Monessen, Burgess Dunlap will at once introduce an ordinance into council based upon the law and will proceed to enforce it against local foreigners who have contributed so largely to the dog nuisance.

Taken To Jail For Stealing Chickens

Stewart Fagan, a coal miner, 36 years old and single of Webster, was taken to the county jail at Greensburg Saturday with a charge of larceny opposite his name. It is alleged that Stewart stole five chickens from Mrs. Martha Wilson in Webster and took them to Donora the same night to dispose of them. He was placed under arrest with the fowls in his possession and after serving several days in the borough lockup was turned over to the authorities of this county.

Big Crowds Attend Evangelistic Services

The meeting at the United Brethren church showed an added interest and attendance last night and Mr. Taylor spoke to a good crowd. The work of the choir was also pleasing, they having increased their number and gave an interesting song service which added to the enthusiasm of the meeting.

At the close of a most inspiring message by Mr. Taylor on the subject, "The Closed Door," two confessed conversion. The meeting was closed by a song and prayer service which was held in the Sunday school room for which a number remained.

The meetings will continue all this week, being held each evening at 8 o'clock. On Sunday next, there will be three meetings, morning, afternoon and evening. The afternoon meeting will be for men only, and the Monessen Male chorus will sing.

Mohawks Winners In Slugging Match

The Mohawks defeated the Cubs in a game featured by hard hitting and poor fielding by the score of 19 to 10 Owing to the absence of Gibson Mohawk's crack pitcher, Dessent was selected to twirl, but was relieved by Mullen in the seventh, with the score 10 to 7 against him. The next inning was a circus for the Mohawks who scored 12 runs and tied up the game. This was the second and last game of the series, the Mohawks winning two games in succession. The Mohawks are without a game for Saturday, but the following week will go to Lock Four. Any good 14 or 16 year old team wanting games communicate with the Mohawks, box 27, Monessen or call 100 and ask for E. B.

Lunar Vegetation.

Professor Pickering of the Harvard astronomical observatory declares that there is nothing less true than that the moon is without air, water or vegetation. There are certain large lunar areas that darken toward lunar noon and fade out toward lunar sunset. They correspond in some degree to the so called Martian seas, and Professor Pickering uses the term "fields" to describe these plains or slopes, which he believes to be covered with vegetation. He is convinced that the dark fields to be seen during the lunar summer do not owe their blackness to shadow, for you can see them at full moon when shadows are absolutely invisible. The blue-black color of the fields and canals, he argues, can therefore be owing only to a discoloration of the surface that comes alike on slopes and levels in the lunar summer, and that is invisible in the spring and autumn. We know of no mineral that acts in that manner, and the only possible explanation seems to be that it is the result of a covering of vegetation.—Youth's Companion.

The Smoker's Paradise.

Mexico may be called the smoker's paradise. There is plenty of good, cheap tobacco in that country, where the leaf grows freely. Furthermore, no tax is levied upon it. One may buy in Mexico a cigar, every bit as good as the average ten cent brand in this country, for a sum equivalent to two and a half cents of our money. Cigarettes are cheap in proportion. To protect the domestic article Mexico levies a prohibitive tax upon imported tobacco, so that no Mexican thinks of buying an American cigar. The laboring classes are able to buy two boxes of cigarettes, containing ten each, for two and a half cents in our money. The tobacco in these is the sun dried natural leaf and of coarse grade, with coarse paper wrappings. The market is abundantly supplied also with cigarettes of high grade tobacco in the best paper wrappings. For the most part the Mexican takes his tobacco in the form of cigarettes.—New York Tribune

The Chins of Burma.

The Chins of Burma are divided into a large number of clans, and a man may not marry a woman of his own clan, but after the marriage ceremonies are over the wife is initiated into her husband's clan and has her wrists wrapped round with cotton yarn as a witness to all evil spirits that she is under the guardianship of the kun, or ancestry, of her husband. The Chins are afraid of witches; but, as has been the case with other peoples, they find great difficulty in learning for certain whether a given woman is a witch or not. If they knew it they would certainly drive the woman out of the village and perhaps resort to further violence. Like the Burmese, they believe that witches have the power by their incantations to introduce foreign matters into the bodies of those whom they hate and so to cause them to die.

The First London Directory.

The great family of Smith, Brown, Jones and Robinson had not spread so far over London when the first directory was published as it has now. Only eighteen Smiths, ten Browns, nine Joneses and four Robinsons figure in it, the Cooks, Halls, Hills and Kings being almost as numerous. There were then but five London bankers, or "gold smiths that keep running cash," as the directory describes them—Richard Blanchard & Child, at the Marygold, in Fleet street; Mr. Cogga, in the Strand, at the King's Head; Benjamin Hinton, at the Flower de Luce, in Lombard street; James Herriott, at the Naked Boy, in Fleet street, and James Johnson, at the Three Flower de Luces, in Lombard street.—London Graphic.

Dresses and Flowers.

If you have had a waist or a light dress stained by wearing a bunch of flowers you will appreciate how much trouble might be saved by owning a chamois case to cover the stem. Make this by stitching into shape a piece of chamois the desired size. Into this case may be slipped the stems of any short stemmed flowers, and then they may be carried or worn without staining waist, glove or gown.—Exchange.

It Would Help.

A facetious bishop went to preach a charity sermon a short time ago in a church. The rector said:

"I am grieved that you should have to come on such a windy day."

The bishop replied: "Tut, tut, my friend. Didn't I come to raise the wind?"—Wisconsin State Journal.

Greatest Railroad Terminal.

Chicago is a greater railroad center than New York, or any other place on earth. As a railroad terminal the Windy City bears the palm over all the world and will probably continue to do so for a long time to come.—New York American.

A Modern Trend.

"Then she doesn't think that two can live as cheaply as one?"

"No, her idea is that two ought to live as expensively as five or six."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Widows' Caps.

The widow's cap is as old as the days of Julius Caesar. An edict of Tiberius commanded all widows to wear the cap under penalty of a heavy fine and imprisonment.

Beth.

Beth in the names of places mentioned in the Bible is the Hebrew word for "house." Thus, Beth-lehem is the house of bread; Bethesda, house of mercy.
